To support evidence-based planning to ensure that the development and implementation of programs/services/interventions is informed by the most current, relevant and reliable LMI (evidence).

- Using evidence and local knowledge, collectively identify:
  - local labour market demand challenges and opportunities
  - local labour market supply challenges and opportunities
- Look at how/if local programs and services align with those challenges and opportunities.

FAR NORTHEAST TRAINING BOARD (FNETB)

Local labour Market Planning Framework

- Local labour market information is easily and readily available and used to inform local labour market planning decisions.
- Education, training, and employment programs are aligned with local labour market needs.
- Employers have access to the workers that they need.
- The local workforce is diverse and inclusive.
- The delivery of employment and training programs and services is coordinated and seamless.
