WORKSHOPS AND PRESENTATIONS

The Game Changer: A New Kind of Leader for the New World of Work

The workplace is changing at an astonishing pace which requires a new kind of leader. Old business models are crumbling, and new ways of working are emerging. In this keynote, participants will learn the five key traits successful leaders are applying in the new world of work.

- What is this new world of work?
- How is it impacting leaders?
- How can you navigate this environment successfully?

Creating A Culture of Ethics, Compliance, and Accountability

Ethics, compliance, and accountability share a common skill set; all are about doing what you say and saying what you do. This is a hard-hitting yet often-humorous program that will show attendees personal and organizational risks to ethics, compliance, and accountability they probably never even knew they had as well as what they can do right now to make sure those risks don't turn into costly problems on the job. This program is perfect for everyone from the front lines right up through senior management.

Stop the Talk and Start the Walk: Empathy in Practice

Though it seems redundant to say these days, we are in an unprecedented situation with life in and after a global pandemic. Many organizations have had to move to a remote work setup and upend everything, which we are collectively realizing leads to its own set of pros and cons. As new stressors add to old ones, we are all trying to figure out ways to stay well while staying effective at the job. To do this, we must first understand and take care of ourselves, and then spread that outward to support others on our team. This talk will explore all of this and more. Focusing mostly on radical empathy in practice, especially in this virtual age of COVID, we will look at what empathy really means vs. what we're often told, the difference between empathy vs. sympathy, common and unhelpful reactions to people in distress, how to demonstrate empathy, empathic listening, and using the information gleaned to inform your behaviour and responses to others.

L'unité grâce à la responsabilisation, adaptation et collaboration

Avec humour et appuyé par des résultats scientifiques, Marc André Morel caricaturera les personnalités qui ponctuent notre quotidien au travail. Utilisant une forme interactive avec l'auditoire, des métaphores puissantes, différents accessoires et médias, il saura faire résonner l'importance et la puissance d'une meilleure collaboration et communication, à travers l'engagement, la responsabilisation et la reconnaissance. Cette conférence vous aidera à :

- Augmenter le sens de la responsabilité face au succès de l'équipe
- Accroître la performance et les résultats grâce à un meilleur engagement et attitudes
- Améliorer les rapports interpersonnels à travers une meilleure connaissance de soi et des autres - couleurs de personnalité
- Harmoniser les communications grâce à la sensibilisation aux différences
- Consolider la cohésion de l'équipe par l'appréciation simple et authentique

Workforce Planning Boards and Regional Literacy Networks

This webinar will present a panel discussion that highlights various ways workforce planning boards and literacy networks work together including an overview of roles and key areas of partnership, the identification of labour needs and how to help local populaces build skills. The panel will represent several regional areas across Ontario and presenters will also discuss innovative partnership, project and collaboration initiatives between planning boards and literacy networks.

Adapting to the virtual world

This presentation will provide information on how organizations have adapted and changed with the help of technological solutions to survive the COVID-19 pandemic. Additionally, references on how some organizations have implemented technology to be more efficient in their operations, eased services to clients, and employee communication. This presentation will also highlight some options to facilitate collaboration within their workforce ecosystem or facilitate hybrid or work from home models.

Cross Cultural Communication and Applying Treaty Principles

The session will cover themes related to cross cultural communication and establishing meaningful pathways to foster improved relations within the community. One of the challenges experienced within a cross-cultural setting is a professional's inability at times to address their own personal bias, assumptions and misconceptions when engaging with individuals, families, or communities, which may result in conflict and misunderstanding. To bring forward a practical approach to effective cross cultural communication methods Michael will share insights as a cross cultural trainer and his view on how treaty principles can be enacted in both personal and professional settings.

PRESENTERS

Vanessa Judelman is the President of Mosaic People Development, an author, Executive Coach and engaging key-note speaker. As a noted leadership expert, Vanessa has trained thousands of leaders across the globe and is known for her dynamic style and practical approach to engaging her audience. Vanessa is passionate about developing leaders and teams. Her highly engaging style, plus 20 years of leadership expertise, leaves audiences feeling motivated and inspired to take action. Vanessa understands that leadership can be challenging. After all, it is common for leaders to have a lot of responsibilities, conflicting priorities and challenging “people” related issues. However, Vanessa also knows that leaders are made not born. Thus, her sessions focus on practical take-aways and tools that help leaders to be more confident and effective on the job.

Bailey Parnell is the Founder & CEO of Skills Camp and was named one of Canada’s Top 100 Most Powerful Women in 2016.
